SHORT BUT SWEET:

While standing at attention during a parade, a private began to wave to the audience. The drill sergeant sternly warned the private, "Jones don't ever do that again." A few minutes later though, the private waved again. When the parade was over, the livid sergeant began to yell and scream at the soldier. He pointed out the dangers of disobeying a superior. Jones was still unremorseful. The instructor then yelled, "Boy, aren't you afraid of me? Don't you know what I could do to you?" Jones replied, "Oh yes sir, but you don't know my mother."

SOME THOUGHTS FOR THE WEEK:

"A man must be big enough to admit his mistakes, smart enough to profit from them, and strong enough to correct them."

John C. Maxwell

"Every day it gets easier. But you got to do it everyday. That's the hard part. But it does get easier."

Bojack Horseman

"No matter how you feel, get up, dress up, show up, and never give up."

Regina Brett

"Some people are making such thorough preparation for rainy days that they aren't enjoying today's sunshine."

William Feather

"You're going to come across people in your life who will say all the right words at all the right times. But in the end, it's always their actions you should judge them by. It's actions, not words, that matter."

Nicholas Sparks

"We look into each other's eyes as we shake. His are still full of death and horror, but in them I see my face reflected, and inside my tiny eyes inside his, I think I see some hope."

Ned Vizzini

"If you're not going to be an authentic, unique version of yourself, who are you going to be?"
